Winning is More than Surviving

Police Chaplain
Training Seminar

Instructor

Tim Rupp is a career police officer, author, pastor, and chaplain. Tim understands what officers experience before, during and after a gunfight or use-of-lethal-force encounter. Tim retired from the San Antonio (Texas) Police Department after 24 years and continues to serve as a reserve deputy and chaplain in Idaho. Tim draws from personal and professional experiences as a patrol officer, homicide detective, and police sergeant, as he takes you through what officers face in a gunfight and help you to prepare officers to win spiritually.

Police and military chaplains are called on to minister to those who kill.

Violence is shunned in our society, but justified violence is sometimes necessary to stop unjustified violence. Even the wise King Solomon said, there is "a time to kill" (Eccl. 3:3). While most of society recoils in fear at violence, some are called to enter that violent world and protect.

There are warriors among us who take up arms and protect those unable or unwilling to protect themselves. But who helps the warriors? Chaplains are called to minister to the spiritual needs of these warriors. To be effective, members of the clergy need to understand the dynamics of using lethal force. The Winning is More than Surviving seminar gives clergy insight to what officers face in a gunfight.

Target Audience: Police and military chaplains and clergy who minister to law enforcement officers or combat veterans.
